

Activity Description:

- Cut the strips of paper on the dotted line. Choose five students and give them each a strip of paper with two ##### on it. These students go to the front of the class without revealing their pictures to the rest of the class.
- The other students in the class each receive the first sheet and begin by writing down the names of the five students in the front of the room.
- One at a time members of the class take turns trying to guess who has the picture of each ##### on their sheet. All students record the answers as they are given.
- An order of students should be established by the teacher and this order will be repeated until a student has correctly identified all the people##### on his/her turn. If the answers are not correct the questions continue.
- Students should be informed that only one person has each ##### and each person only has two ##### expressions.
- If you photocopy the record-keeping sheet back-to back the activity can be done twice by assigning the slips to five new students for a second round.
